.NET POWER WEEK

Genisoft, one of the Romanian market leaders in consultancy services for the Microsoft Application Platform, is proud to invite you to the first workshop dedicated to professionals who design and implement solutions based on the Microsoft .NET platform. For the first time in Romania, you have the opportunity to attend a workshop targeting both .NET solution architects and developers with the express goal of covering the entire set of specific issues related to the platform.

The workshop takes place between the 7th and the 10th of December 2009 in a spectacular location provided by Cautis Hotel in Azuga, Romania. The agenda contains the following major subjects:

1. .NET platform fundamentals
2. Data access models and technologies
3. Distributed applications communication models and technologies
4. User experience models and technologies
5. Security
6. The integration of Microsoft .NET in the Microsoft Application Platform
7. Cloud computing
8. The architecture of .NET solutions
9. The future of Microsoft .NET

The trainer delivering the workshop is Ciprian Jichici, General Manager Genisoft, member of the Microsoft Regional Directors Program. Ciprian has over 9 years of experience in Microsoft .NET Solutions and is one of the most notorious Romanian .NET specialists worldwide, being many times a speaker at major international conferences like TechEd Europe, TechEd South Africa, SharePoint Conference, and others.

.NET Power Week is the first workshop ever organized in Romania that enables you get the bigger picture over the Microsoft .NET platform. This approach is highly valuable when it comes to choosing the right .NET technology for your software solutions. The workshop is addressed to both Microsoft .NET solution architects and developers. It is also addressed to Microsoft partners as well as any other company that runs or has plans to run major software projects based on this platform in the near future.
